

Canadian Forest Week

Forest Fires Have Consumed Half
Canada's Timber Supply
Canada's national campaign to pay for her forests from the income of fire insurance is now attracting attention. In the battle waged by a forest week each year in which a national forest campaign is carried on, looking toward the education of Canadians as to the value of their forests, Canada's forest resources, this year's celebration of Forest Week in 1934 was devoted to the work of the forest fire. The "Canadian Forest Week" was held from May 10 to 15, 1934. The forest fire is the most serious threat to the Canadian forest resource, and the use of natural resources in destruction of the timber, even growth, and even the very soil which produces it, by fire, and the waste, the use of wasteful and destructive cutting methods without any thought of securing a new crop through the medium of the planter, the price and the rate of loss is beyond all calculation. It may be said and encouraged to a sustained effort in procuring the conservation of this valuable resource.

Just how great are Canada's forest resources is indicated by the following figures reported by the Director of Forestry. The capital invested in the forest industry of Canada is estimated at $400,000,000, nearly one-third being in lumbering plantations and mills, the balance in pulp and paper operations. The pulp and paper mills are distributed as follows: 12,000 and lumbering nearly 125,000, 666 in the forestry unit of Canada's present production. The total production from the forests of the Dominion is about 100,000,000 annually.

Over 2,000 sawmills engage in lumbering and shingle production. The total annual cut of lumber is approximately 400 million feet, and the value of the lumber is about $100 million. The lumber is shipped to the United States, the United Kingdom, and other foreign countries. The pulp and paper mills produce about 1,000,000 tons of pulp and paper annually. The value of the pulp and paper is about $100 million.

According to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Dominion, the forest resources of Canada are estimated at 1,000 million acres. The forest resources of Canada are estimated at 1,000 million acres. The forest resources of Canada are estimated at 1,000 million acres.

The Douglas Fir (Pseudotsuga Douglasii) is the most valuable of the British Columbia forest products. It is found in the Pacific coast, where it grows in the moist, temperate climate. It is a tree of great size, and its wood is of great value for lumber and pulp. It is found in the Pacific coast, where it grows in the moist, temperate climate.
